

ABSTRACT OF THE DISCLOSURE

To provide a rotation angle detector with high detecting accuracy for use in association with a steering wheel on a vehicle and the like, a rotation angle detector is constructed by providing a recess surrounding a shaft portion in a top face of a detecting member, and extending a shaft support, formed on an upper cover, into the recess.